Nowadays Google Glasses is actual innovative device. In fact, Google Glasses is a display, a touch pad and a camera. There are also microphone and battery which are built into eyeglass frames, so it is possible to put the display in areas of your view that allow you to view movies and pictures, do a search and translate. Google Glass is powered by the Android mobile operating system.

You can operate Google Glasses in different ways. Record videos and take pictures, you should just say the phrase and Google Glass will take a picture or record a video. For example: «ok, glass, record a video» or «ok, glass, take a picture». The photos and videos will be stored on the 4GB flash memory of the device.

Google Glass will show you text messages like emails which you receive and allow you to reply to them by the voices commands. Also you can find any information with this device. If you like googling things a lot, you just should to ask a question and the device will give you the answer from the internet.

There are Google maps which are widely used and are integrated into glass, so users will be able to chart the course of their journey or look up locations by the voices commands.

Live video sharing is such function that can show the world which you are seeing your own eyes. If you are attending a family party or school plays of your child, you can share what do you feel with your friends and family in real-time and make them a part of your feelings.

Integrates Google Now is the digital voice assistant from the Google search which has been integrated in this device. It will keep an eye on your daily habits, for example when you leave your office.

Translation is helpful feature for you when you are going abroad or just like to travel. You should ask Google Glass to translate a phrase or a sentence from one language to another.

But, unfortunately, these glasses are prohibited in Ukraine by the Security Service of Ukraine. The official explanation is that Google Glasses is classified as unauthorized spyware equipment. However, after all, miracle glasses come to the Ukrainian market.
